THE MYSTIC ROOM.

BY ELLEN MITCHELL, Would you enter? Here is the rusty key. Does it turn in the lock ?-what stays your

You are pale with terror ! awe-struck you see In that mystic room the uncoffined dead. Turn the pall aside from his silent face; It has never yet been touched with decay; You are shivering, trembling: this gloomy place

Is so cold, shut out from the light of day. How long since he died ? One year ago I dragged this corpse from the sight of men; Oh, God forgive me, I loved him so ! An idol of clay, I knew it then.

He had held me tranced with his traitorous tongue,

Had wooed me with his treacherous eyes; To the very core my soul was stung By the falsehood wearing such a guise.

I gave him the trust of early youth, A wealth of tenderness laid at his feet Was it strange I could not doubt his truth, When thralled securely by his deceit?

Ah, well, he died! How sudden you start; I almost fancied I heard you groan, Do you know this room? It is my heart; The corpse you gaze on is your own.

It will never stir-you need not weep: Unmoved I mark each tear you shed: The harvest you sowed you now must reap: I loathe the living-I loved the dead. Twas a cruel blow. Ah, had you known

Your nobler self by your deed was slain, You had pitied then the stifled moan, Wrung forth from one who had loved in vain.

The past has perished. Give me the key. There are haunting shadows in this room, Away, away, from my presence flee! What is it you ask? You know your doom.

The African Judge. Alexander, of Macedonia, came, one day, to a distant province of Africa rich in gold. The inhabitants went to meet him, carrying baskets full of gold and fruits. "Do you eat these fruits ?" said Alexander: "I am not come to view your riches, but to learn your customs." So they led him to the market, where their chief judge held his court. Just then a citizen stepped forth, and said, "O, Judge! I bought of this man a sackfull of chaff, and have found in it a considerable treasure. The chaff is mine, but not the gold; and this man will not take it back. Speak to him, O Judge, for it

His adversary, also a citizen of the place answered, "Thou art afraid lest thou should'st retain something wrong, and I not fear to take it from thee. I sold thee this sack, including all that it contains. Keep thine own. Speak to him to this effect, O Judge !"

The Judge asked the first if he had a son. He answered, "Yes." He asked the other if he had a daughter, and he also answered, "Yes." "Friends," said the Judge, "you are both honest people; unite your children to each other, and give them the newly-found treasure for a marriage dower. This is my Alexander was astonished when he heard this sentence. "Have I judged unrighteously," said the Judge of the distant land, "that thou art thus astonished ?" "By no means," answered Alexander; "but in our country it would have been other-

"And how ?" inquired the African Judge. "The disputants," replied Alexander, "would have lost their heads, and the treasure would have come into the hands of the King.

The Judge smote his hands together, and said. "Does the sun shine with you, and does Heaven drop rain upon you?"

Alexander answered, "Yes."
"Then must it be," he pursued, "on account of the innocent animals that dwell in your land; for over such men ought no sun to shine, no heaven to rain."

WANTS. BOOK AGENTS IN LUCK AT LAST

The crisis is passed. The hour has come to lift the reil of secresy which has hitherto enveloped the inner listory of the great civil war, and this is done by offering to the public General L. C. Baker's "HISTORY OF THE SECRET-SERVICE." For thrilling interest this book transcends all the commonless of a thousand years, and conclusively prevent that "truth is stranger than delien."

Agents are clearing from $200 to $800 per month which we can prove to any doubting applicant. A we more can obtain agencies in territory yet unoccould deliver the stranger of the strange

NOTICE,—THE UNDERSIGNED
would call attention of the public to his
NEW GOLDEN EAGLE FURNACE.
This is an entirely new heater. It is so constructed as to at once commend itself to general favor, being a combination of wrought and east iron. It is very simple in its construction, and is perfectly airtight; self-cleaning, having no pipes or drums to balaken out and cleaned. It is so arranged with upright flues as to produce a larger amount of heat from the same weight of coal than any furnace now in use. The hyprometric condition of the air as produced by my new arrangement of evaporation will at once demonstrate that it is the only Hot Air Furnace that will produce a perfectly healthy atmosphere.
Those in want or a complete Heating Apparatus would do well to call and examine the Golden Eagle.
